COUNTRY NEWS.

Gloucester, August 11.

AST Wednesday the Assizes ended here, which proving a Maiden one, the Under-Sheriff made the usual Present of the Glove-Money to the Judges Servants.

At the said Assizes, Hugh Radman and Thomas Showle were found guilty of Felony, in stealing Sheep, and ordered to be transported for 7 Years. And Mary Curtis Elizabeth Smith, convicted of Petty Larceny, was sentenced to be whipp'd.

John Richards and Dan. Daniels, charg'd with robbing Edward Coleman on the Highway, were honourably acquitted, it appearing to be a very malicious Prosecution.—Five others were also acquitted.

Edward Mackoone, Oliver Dowers, Joan Chelmer, and Prudence Curtis, condemn'd the last Assizes, were ordered to be transported for 14 Years; and yesterday, with 6 others, they were carried down to Bristol, under a strong Guard.

On Saturday Night last a Boy unfortunately fell from a Trow near this City; one of the Crew immediately jump'd in after him, and brought him almost dead, but growing faint, he deserted him, and, with much Difficulty, got to Land; another presently after coming to his Assistance, the Boy fasten'd on his Neck, and both were drown'd.

We have an Account from South Cerney in this County, that about a Fortnight ago Mr. Hinton, a Farmer of that Place, kill'd a barren Ewe Sheep, in the Inside of which was found a Roll of Fat that weigh'd 35 lb. and a half, being within half a Pound heavier as the Carcase; which is something very common.

They write from Ludlow in Shropshire, that on the 27th inst. a very melancholy Accident happen'd to William Loyd and his Wife, who were labouring People. The Man came Home to dinner, and in the Interim his Wife took her Pigs to wash at Lutford's Bridge, and going under the Arch to force them in, had the Misfortune to slip off a Scar, and by the Rapidity of the Stream was carried into the Depth of the River; but being out for Help, was heard by her Husband, who to her Assistance, and threw himself off a Wall (four Yards high) into the said River, where they were both drown'd within a small Distance of each other, and the next Day were buried together.

It was most remarkable in this poor Fellow, that tho' he was warn'd of the Danger which might befall him if he attempted to go to her Relief, and that the Neighbours held him by the Arm, yet his Wife struggling, he thrust himself out of the Person's Hands, and perish'd with her. It is such an Instance of sincere Affection as is rarely to be met with.

On Thursday last ended our Assizes, when William Brown, the younger, and William Swain, for robbing on the Highway, receiv'd Sentence of Death.

The three following were ordered for Transportation, viz. William Caulfield, for stealing two Wigs and five Razors out of his Master's Shop. Francis Bentley, for setting Fire to the Dwelling-house of Daniel Biffon of Westbury, and Maribro Hunt for sheep-stealing.

John Lovelock, found guilty of Man-slaughter, was put in the Hand. And Abraham Scholar, who was convicted of Felony at the last Assizes, and committed Order of Court till the next to answer the same, to be whipp'd round the Market-place, and remain in Prison till the next Assizes, to take his Trial for High Treason.

Joseph Brown, for privately conveying Arms and Rapsons into the County Gaol, was fined a Mark, and two Years Imprisonment, and find Security for seven Years.

John Marham, for Sheep-stealing, was burnt in the Hand.

Mary Stevens, for entering the Dwelling-house of John Lucas of Seend in this County, and stealing fifty Pounds in Gold and Silver, and two Gold Rings.

John Harris, for assaulting and mistreating his Wife. William and Elizabeth Perrin, for assaulting and robbing Catherine Hall on the Highway of forty Shillings and other Pieces of Money. William Harding, for Sheep-stealing. Richard Frampton, charged on Oath with Suspicion of murdering William Harcourt the elder in the Night-time. William Parker, for stealing one Yoke of Oxen, three Heifers, and a Mare. William Smith, for stealing seven Guineas in the House of Giles Earle, Esq; Mathias Rudland for Man-slaughter. John Clark and Samuel Taylor, for stealing one Goose; were all acquitted.

Last Friday, about 9 o'Clock in the Evening, one Robert Robinson, a travelling Scotsman, coming over the Plain from Humington to this City, was set upon by three Foot-pads, one of which, without asking him any Questions, knock'd him down; then they all three seiz'd him, and having pull'd off his Breeches, one of them held a Knife to his Throat, and threaten'd to murder him, if he did not immediately discover where his Money was: He told them, that he had no more than what they found in his Pockets. Upon which they tied his Hands behind him, stuff'd his Mouth with Chalk, and then made off with all his Goods, consisting of Handkerchiefs, Muslins, Lace, &c.

LONDON.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from France, with the Paris Letter of Saturday last, which says, That they have Advice from Spain, That the Infanta Donna Maria Theresa is dangerously ill, that she has receiv'd all the Sacraments. She is the present Queen of Spain's Second Daughter, and about Thirteen Years of Age.

It adds nothing more material, than the Translations of the Archbishop of Tholouse to the Archbishoprick of Narbonne, and of the Bishop of Condom to the Archbishoprick of Tholouse; and that the Griffin was arrived at Port l'Orient, from the Ile of Bourbon, with a rich Cargo on Account of the French India Company.

Last Saturday were executed at Reading, in Berks. William Parrott and Robert Milloway, both for robbing Farmer Hands on the Highway, of 20 s. and 2 d. 3. and Thomas Hircocock, for setting Fire to several Houses in the Parish of Beeton, in that County. The 2 Highwaymen were both young Fellows, Parrott being not above 31, and Milloway not above 20 Years of Age. They confess'd that they were Plasterers, and not having Work in London at their Business, they left the Town to rob on the Road for Money to support them till they could hear of Work. They were also young Practitioners, having never robb'd but 4 People, viz. a Woman, near Dursley in Gloucestershire, of Half a Crown; a Gentleman's Servant near Stroud-Water of 19 s. a Gentleman near Farringdon, of 47 s. and the Prosecutor, as above, near the same Place. They had very little Learning, but were Men of good natural Parts, behav'd well in their Confinement, and to all Appearance were true Penitents. They earnestly desir'd Assistance from the Clergy, for which they were exceeding thankful, and to all other Persons who had the Charity to read to them, and they dy'd with great Resolution, after having exhorted the Spectators to take Warning by them, and refrain from lewd Women, and debauch'd Company, which had been the Means of bringing them to their untimely End. They made no particular Confession of any notorious Crimes they had been guilty of, that only excepted for which they dy'd.

Hircocock the Incendiary was about 40 Years of Age, a very illiterate Man, and much inclin'd to villainous Practices. Before his Trial he feign'd himself mad, but not being able to endure the usual Severities necessary to be exercised upon Madmen, he soon came to his Senses. He not only confess'd the Fact for which he suffer'd, but other Crimes he had been guilty of, and discover'd two Brothers nam'd Hillyer, as his Accomplices; tho' they have since been clear'd, yet after Sentence was pass'd upon him, even to his last Moment, he persist'd in it that they were concerned; as for the rest, he behaved very well after Sentence, and to all Appearance died a true Penitent.

Milloway went to the Place of Execution in a Shroud, attended by his Wife, who shew'd a great Fondness for him, as did Parrot's Wife; but Hircocock's Wife, tho' he had 6 Children by her, for whom he seem'd much concern'd, visit'd him but very little during his Confinement.

After Execution, Milloway and Parrot were decently interr'd, but no body took the least Notice of Hircocock, till some labouring Men, out of a Principle of Humanity, dug a Grave and bury'd him.

We hear from Edinburgh, that on Monday Se'n night died George Home of Whitefield, Esq; aged 76, at his Seat at Manderston. He was Member of Parliament during all Queen Anne's Reign, for the Burgh of New Galloway.

Last Night the Corps of the Marquis of Montandre, after lying in State in the Jerusalem Chamber, was carried from thence and interr'd in great Funeral Pomp and Solemnity with the Remains of Baron Spanheim and his Lady, in a Vault near King Henry the Seventh's Chapel, Westminster-Abbey. The whole Choir attended at the Ceremony. The Right Hon. Sir Paul Methuen, Knight of the Bath, walked as Chief Mourner.

Yesterday his Majesty, accompanied by his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland, and attended by several Persons of Distinction, took the Diversion of hunting a Stag in Richmond new Park, which afforded a fine Chase for above two Hours. After the Sport was ended his Majesty dined at Richmond, and returned in the Evening to Kensington.

We hear, that his Grace the Duke of Grafton receives no Visitors, on account of the Death of the Lord Charles Fitzroy, his Grace's Third Son.

'Tis remarkable, that the Messenger who brought the unwelcome News travelled nine hundred Miles in nine Days.
